TO THE EDITOR OF THE CHRISTIAN OBSERVER.A. Former communication of mine) the character of Lady Carbery, having been well received by your readers, I am emboldened to transmit to you the enclosed account of the Life and Death of Mr. John Smith, late fellow of Queen s College, Cambridge, who died August the 7th, 1652, and lies interred in the chapel of that college. It is contained in a sermon preached at his funeral, by the pious and learned Bishop Patrick. The first part of the sermon consists of an elucidation of the character of Elijah, and of the regard in which he was held by others, and particularly by Elisha. In these respects Dr. Patrick thinks that his deceased friend may be fitly compared with the ascended prophet. To such as might object to this comparison as too bold, he replies in the words of Gregory Nyssen, that though not in his miraculous powers, yet in other things we will be bold to compare him with that great man: --in his zealous faith, in his cordial love to God, in his earnest desire and thirst (as he speaks) after that which truly is, in an exact and exquisite life, in a conversation so studied that it was in all things consonant with itself, in most unaffected gravity, wonderful simplicity, and a countenance...
